REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

FOR GOVERNOR:

HON. W. HEWISENER,

OF BEDFORD. FOR CONGRESS:

HON HORACE MAKNARD.

FOR SENATOR: W. B. STALEY,

FOR FLOATER v. JOSEPH A. COOPER, OF KNOX.

NOVEMBER 8, 1870.

ssion between Hon. Gen. John C. Brown, or Governor, took place in Levening. There was a very nce present, composed of friends of both candidates. We are fully warranted in saving that the Republicans present had no reason to be ashamed of their standard-bearer, but, on the contrary, had good cause to be satisfied with his defense of his own and his party's record. He is a pleasant, foreible and easy speaker, and fully able to meet Gen. Brown on every point. In East Tennessee, in view of the proscriptive spirit Gen. Brown's friends manifest towards the Conservative element of the party, the latter finds himself with the laboring oar. The discussion was conducted in a spirit becoming both gentleman, and we suppose was satisfactory to the friends of Gen. Brown, as it certainly was to those of Mr. Wisener. We are only sorry that our space forbids us giving the speeches a more extended notice.

Napoleon and France long oppressed Germany-overron her provinces. burned her cities, made hard requisitions upon her people, and oppressed them in many ways.

But, measured by the demands of other conquerers, the exactions Germany now makes are not severe. This same France, after Jena, demanded of Prussia half of her dominions, and compelled her to reduce her army to 40,000 men. The Crimean war cost Russia the strongest fortress on her southern border, and the right to keep a fleet on the Black Sea. The Italian war of 1859 cost Austria one of her wealthiest provinces. The Bohemian war of 1866 cost Austria the entire expenses of Prussia in that war, and overshadowed her with the powerful North German Confederation, which now startles Europe with its incomparable military system and powerful armies.

Measured by these demands, we do not see that Germany now asks of France more than any other nation with her advantage and power would. If we condemn Germany, we must judge her by some other standard than that furnished by the example of her neighbors.

FURTHER USE FOR UNION MEN.

tien. Brown goes back on the secession resolution of the State Convention. He says he reported resolutions repudiating se cession in 1868. That is all true, and a good many other things were repudiated then that are very popular now. A "mili tary reunion," such as assembled in Nashville last month, controlled by the spirits therein gathered, world not have met at all in 1868. Combs would not have made his McMinnville speech in 1868. The Democracy of this State would not have repudiated Dorsey B. Thomas, Judge Gaut, Andy Johnson, or Baxter, in 1868, The Democracy of Shelby county would not have nominated an Imperialist for State Senator in 1868. The Knox county ring would not have repudiated Nelson, Crawford, Young, Flournoy, Champion, and other Union Conservative men in 1868 as they did in 1870 A good many things have changed since that year, and Brown and his friends among the number. It is ridiculous for Brown to try to explain the spirit of the Convention that nominated him, by the spirit of any convention that has assembled in Tennessee since Burnside came

The people know what the temper of that convention was, and they know the reason. It simply means that the Secession wing of Tennessee Democracy is now in the ascendant and their spirit is to control the party. The influences that actuate them now are different from what they were in 1868, and if that element increase in strength they will ride the Union Conervative element in 1871 much harder than they do now. The spirit that pervades the party in Middle and West Tennessee will soon manifest itself here, if they once get in power.

The simple fact is that this "military reunion " at Nashville had two sets of res olutions before it. One repudiated secession, the other endorsed it. The Convention refused to entertain the former and adopted the latter. Johnson and Colyar have both explained this fully, the people understand it, and it will take a smarter man and better talker than Brown or any of his friends to explain it away. The very fact that they have to go back to 1868, when they were in a minority and humble, t · explain the spirit now controlling them, According to the usage and custom of is proof enough of the charges made. Facts nations, wars are the means resorted to for are often proved by circumstances. The character of the men that composed that convention, the spirit they infused into for the settlement of all international their friends all over Middle and West Tennessee, the rejeticon of the Union elewonder that now, when Germany has ment of the party from its councils are quite as convincing proof of the charges many long years-she should exact terms we prefer as the wordings and spirit of the
